DETAILED ACTION

1. The request filed on May 15, 2001 for a Continued Prosecution Application (CPA) under 37 CFR 1.53(d) based on parent Application No. 09/358,280 is acceptable and a CPA has been established. An action on the CPA follows.

Response to Amendment

2. Amendment file March 19, 2001 has been entered.

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Drawings

4. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the "means for pressurizing the container removably mounted to said inlet of said container" recited in claim 11 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. Claims 5, 8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cushing (4,911,339) in view of Rosenberg (4,960,419).

With respect to claims 5 and 8, Cushing discloses an apparatus comprising: a pressurizable container 16; a first water conduit 72; means 40 for pressurizing the container; a second water conduit 18, 51; a spray nozzle 20; a clip 24; a restrictive valve 46; and a means for sealing 70. The valve of Cushing inherently has an open position and a closed position. Cushing differs from what is being claimed in the alligator clip. The clip of Cushing is a C-shaped clip. Rosenberg discloses, in column 6, lines 3-6, a conventional alligator clip 235 for securing a tube to a convenient point. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced the clip of Cushing with the alligator clip of Rosenberg for attachment to convenient places.

With respect to claim 10, Cushing in view of Rosenberg discloses the limitations of the claimed invention with the exception of ice. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have added ice to the container of Cushing in view of Rosenberg to dispense cold water.

6. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cushing (4,911,339) in view of Rosenberg (4,960,419) as applied to claim 5 above, and further in view of Shurnick et al. (4,852,781).

Art Unit: 3752

Cushing in view of Rosenberg differs from what is claimed in the means secured to the misting apparatus for attaching the misting apparatus to a person's waist. Shurnick et al. discloses a means 27 for securing a bottle to a part of a person's body (waist shown in figure 1). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced cage 30 of Cushing with the means 27 of Shurnick et al. to attach the device of Cushing to a runner.

7. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cushing (4,911,339) in view of Rosenberg (4,960,419) as applied to claim 5 above, and further in view of Norman (842,689).

Cushing in view of Rosenberg discloses the limitations of the claimed invention with the exception of the manual piston type pump. Norman discloses a piston pump 7, 11, 12, 13, 17. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced the bellows pump of Cushing with the piston pump of Norman to provide faster compression.

8. Claims 11, 12 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cushing (4,911,339) in view of Rosenberg (4,960,419), Shurnick et al. (4,852,781) and Roueche et al. (5,186,391).

With respect to claims 11, 12, 15 and 16,

Cushing discloses an apparatus comprising: a pressurizable container 16; a first water conduit 72; means 40 for pressurizing the container; a second water conduit 18, 51; a spray nozzle 20; a clip 24; a restrictive valve 46; and a means for sealing 70. The valve of Cushing inherently has an open position and a closed position. Cushing differs from what is being claimed in: the means for pressurizing the container mounted to the inlet; the means for securing the container to the person; and the alligator clip.

Roueché et al. discloses, in figure 13, a piston pump mounted to an inlet cap 118. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced the bellows pump of Cushing with the piston pump of Roueché et al. to provide faster compression.

Shurnick et al. discloses a means 27 for securing a bottle to a part of a person's body (shown as a belt 27 around runner's waist 31 in figure 1). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced cage 30 of Cushing with the means 27 of Shurnick et al. to attach the device of Cushing to a runner.

Rosenberg discloses, in column 6, lines 3-6, a conventional alligator clip 235 for securing a tube to a convenient point. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have replaced the clip of Cushing with the alligator clip of Rosenberg for attachment to convenient places.

With respect to claim 17,

Cushing in view of Rosenberg, Shurnick et al. and Roueché et al. discloses the limitations of the claimed invention with the exception of ice. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have added ice to the container of Cushing in view of Rosenberg, Shurnick et al. and Roueche et al. to dispense cold water.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5, 7-12 and 15-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
